RHONDA DEE

Born in Texas and living in Sydney, Rhonda Dee's work explores the boundaries of cultures and the internal geographies of the body and psyche. She uses the body as a platform, where the construction and deconstruction of our identities are formed. The paintings explore the fleeting, layered and translucent qualities of the subjective body, in creating a visual in which the skin of the works occupies a space between dissolution and re-formation.

MCLEMOI GALLERY is a contemporary art space established in 2012 by Sara Leonardi-McGrath, Glenn McGrath AM and curated by Kristia D. Moises.

The primary focus of the gallery is to center itself as an open forum, representing international and Australian mid-career artists; and introducing young emerging artists through exhibitions, conversations, consulting and partnerships with Cultural Institutions. The Gallery's mission is characterized by an adherence to a curatorial program, which aims to create a sense of community and learning.

MCLEMOI GALLERY is located in Chippendale, in the heart of Sydney's emerging, contemporary art scene.
